Tii Network Technologies, Inc. Acquires Porta Systems Product Line, Expands Telecommunications Industry Footprint

Edgewood, NY- May 19, 2010 – Tii Network Technologies, Inc., a leading provider of reliable network connection and protection solutions for the Telecommunications and Cable TV industries, today announced the acquisition of Porta Systems Connection and Protection Division, a global firm that designs and produces surge protection modules and connectivity blocks/housing for the telecommunications market. This acquisition expands Tii’s international footprint, extends its current offering of connectivity and protection products, and further strengthens the company’s position as a leading provider of central office and remote access cabinet connection and protection devices. More information about the company is available at <http://www.tiinetech.com>.

Porta Systems is headquartered in Syosset, NY with manufacturing operations in Matamoros, Mexico. The company designs and produces Protection Modules, Connection and Termination Blocks, Building Entrance Terminals, 5-Pin Protection Packs and Protection Assemblies and Frames, primarily to telecommunications service providers for central office and customer premise applications.

According to Kenneth A. Paladino, Tii’s President and Chief Executive Officer, “This acquisition extends Tii’s current offerings of connection and protection technology and strengthens the company’s market portfolio while contributing to our global growth strategy. Tii is committed to providing the highest quality and innovative network solutions to satisfy the diverse needs of our customers.” Tii has over 45 years of telecommunications industry experience that, when combined with Porta’s 40 year history, represents a wealth of telecom industry knowledge and capability to build on for the future.
